TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE.

The Suburban Traction Company's Franchise.

A special meeting of the Township Committee was held on Monday night to consider the franchise of the Suburban Traction Company and amendments.

Wm. Whittlesey was present with papers and books. He addressed the Committee at length. He said the Suburban Traction Co. "took hold of a dead horse and tried to resurrect it." The introduction of electricity had resulted in a loss to the Company. He desired to have the ordinance amended to permit the Company to narrow the gauge, also to make a permanent compensation of $100 per mile in lieu of former section of a grade increase, and to permit the Company to sell the road. Section 13 of the franchise provides that the Suburban cannot sell, assign or lease to any other road without the consent of the Township Committee.

Councilman Howe of Orange informed the Committee that the road had been advertised for sale. The franchise has been different in each municipality through which the road runs. They have received the necessary modifications to the franchise in the Oranges. The Company pays more tax in Bloomfield than in the Oranges.

Chairman Stout replied at length. He said that to the inhabitants of Bloomfield this is a question of transfer. There is no visible purchaser, but this movement for an amended franchise comes from the Consolidated Traction Company. They can use it and make it a feeder to their main line. They can make it profitable at the start, more so than any other Company. The question of transfers must be considered before the road is a hard struggle with the Consolidated Traction Company we secured transfers to Newark by paying seven cents.

Councilman Howe asked: "What are we going to do?" Mr. Stout replied: "You will have to wait until we see more light." "I am disposed to see a long future instead of a short present," continued Mr. Stout.

"I am sorry I ever put up electric poles," remarked Receiver Whittlesey. "I am sorry that you are sorry," replied Mr. Stout.

Councilman Howe inquired: "Would you let this road live?" Yes, replied Mr. Stout, with a modification of franchise. Whenever they get in a position to offer something tangible the Committee will consider the proposition. The Consolidated Traction Company already have another lot to their line, the North Jersey Traction Company, $50 per mile will break nobody's back.

Receiver Whittlesey: "I do not believe the North Jersey Traction Company or the Consolidated Traction Company desire to purchase the Suburban Traction Company."

Chairman Stout: "How much or how sure are you? I am willing to cover any amount you wish to name that this will be so."

The Receiver declined the offer. Continuing Mr. Stout said that Newark is the centre for the people of Essex County and it was an important question what it was going to do to get to Newark. He insisted upon the transfer clause.

Councilman Howe: "Suppose this is outside of Boston and New York interests, how can we give you a transfer. Why shut us out on this question of a modification for a transfer?"

Mr. Stout: "No doubt the Chairman of the Franchise Committee, Mr. Haskell, will consider a modification satisfactory to all concerned."

Councilman Howe and Receiver Whittlesey departed without a settlement. Halsey M. Barrett was an interested listener to the foregoing proceedings and entertained the Committee with his view of the case. He said that he was present, not as a citizen and taxpayer. I own a large tract of unimproved land on Broad Street near the terminus of the Suburban Traction Company, representing some four or five hundred acres. I am sorry to hear that the road is not in good condition. If the Committee allow the tracks to be taken up it will be a set back for the upper and lay out a street from Broad Street through my property and through and owned by Mr. Hinck of Montclair to the Greenwood Lake station with the privilege of an electric road. If this road goes into the hands of the Consolidated Traction Company it will improve this section.

Mr. Stout: "This Company would be the best owners for Bloomfield." Messrs. Fisher, Haskell, Lawrence, Barrett, Fisher and a few other interested property owners will meet at the residence of Mr. Stout to-night and will endeavor to agree on some plan for future action.

The report of Collector Osborne as custodian of the school fund to July 1st was received and placed on file, and the balance turned over to Collector Hardcastle.

Mr. Lawrence reported that it was impracticable to run the sewer through Berkeley Avenue and Newark Avenue to Franklin Street. He recommended that connection be made with the main outlet sewer at the Second River.

Chairman Stout suggested that connection be made at the junction of Harrison and Mill Streets, Belleville.

The question of extension of the sewer system will be settled next Monday night. It is said that Montgomery Street from the canal to John Street, Walnut Street, Williamson Avenue and Orchard Street will be included in the ordinance.

At 11 P. M. the Committee adjourned.

SOME RAMBLING THOUGHTS.

BY "NEMO."

(Copyrighted by Daws & Taber.)

Is there not in your neighborhood a person whose past has a blot on it, and whose name is mentioned with a look of holy horror by cronies when together for a chat? It is of such persons I write, and may my pen be dipped in power for the task.

If a man commit a crime, be given a fair trial, be found guilty, and be sentenced, what becomes of him? He goes to prison and works out his sentence. And then? Then he is guiltless in the eye of the law, and he is as though he had done no wrong thing. His retention in prison has expiated his crime: he is a pure member of society. But what has society to say through you? The answer by deeds is this: "The stain of that wrong shall stay on his forehead; he shall be hampered in every way; he shall be prevented from getting an honorable position by middle-class tongues reviving the story of the past; he shall be hounded by the voice of thou; he shall be made to feel that the world is too shallow to purify him; for the stigma of crime shall fasten even on his children after him."

If a man commit a sin and no one knows it, he is as pure as the unsullied snow in the eyes of the world; but if it be known, though he weep over it until its very substance is washed away by the flood of grief, though he agonize with regrets, though he spend his last effort to right a wrong, yet in every neighborhood are those whose memories are long as death or whose hearts are hard as adamant, whose cool, calculating ways save them from sin or whose clever concealments save them from discovery;—these Pharisees, I say, will summon the ghosts of a man's past from the grave, though it all be buried deep beneath accumulated years of remorse and unhappiness. Like mythical ghouls and real hyenas, these lovers of carrion will dig till they find the treasure they seek, the sin spot; and they rejoice with howls that all the world can hear.

If a life of probity be lived for 25 years or more, and the deeds of good be plentiful as grain in harvest-time; if the citadel of character be held by keen conflict with evil, until some weary moment of sloth, and evil then rush in through some unguarded spot, though only for a few moments, the world through the deeds of the world, says that the years of probity count for naught. Thereafter the spot shall be larger than the character it is on, the fragment be larger than the whole, the five minutes of evil blot out the whole memory of a quarter of a century of good. An earthquake rends in a moment the works put up by a patient process of accretion, and there is nothing then but dust and disaster where beauty stood before; and so it is with the dazed man who is the sufferer from the moral upheaval of bitterness and uncharity in a community. One moment he rightly stands before them all, worthy of confidence and recognized as a power for good, the next moment his character lies bruised and mangled; never to be well again so far as the Levites and Pharisaeans care, never to live and move and have full being again unless some borrowed sun from Satan with goodness, far exceeding that of these who offend, comes to the rescue with sympathy and love.

If a girl get intentionally ignorant of herself, by those who train her, and who know not the difference between ignorance and purity, makes a faux pas under the stress of feeling that she does not understand and the pledging of the man who ought to be worthy of trust, then her own kith and kin too often turn on her like ravening beasts, driving her out into the world to further wrong-doing and certain destruction. Upon her head, fair and inexperienced, are visited the sins of omission committed by those who raised no warning voice to tell of the pitfalls of life.

If the All-Father takes note of the fall of a sparrow, and tenderly bears with our misdeeds, giving solace to the wounded spirit when even those who should cherish it turn from it, how grimly must He smile when He sees little nites of humanity, and frail and deluding Him to sit themselves in harsh, unforgiving, unmerciful judgment on their fellows, whose conditions of stress and temptation none but the All-Wise can know. And those of us whose hearts have sorrowed and suffered, whose feelings have grown tender under affliction, whose feet linger nearer and nearer the source of all gentleness and kindness, meekness and peace, have the growing sense that much of the evil in the world is fostered and strengthened by those who falsely conclude themselves to be good, barring as they do by their sacred-sacred manners the way of hope and life and labor and happiness to the sinner, who sorrows and would do better. The wandering one grows hardened at exposure, callous to the gain of the rice once honored, fierce in enmity to society; and so on from bad to worse until the end confirms the evil theories of the professor's good.

And that fact guarantees its freshness. It doesn't last long enough to get stale. It requires talent to make good soda. Everybody can't do it—but we can. We use the freshest fruit syrups, and filtered water. We know just how to mix things to make you say "ah!" at the first sip. We're not bragging though you'll think us justified in doing so when you taste the soda.

CUT PRICES

By the only concern that ever voluntarily reduced prices, or Water Supply Goods. Everything the farmer sells here, who sells low to him? We have repeatedly refused to join, since we reduced the cost of water power so I want it was, and have therefore detested without combination, and are content to deal with, and because we are price makers, and not price takers, we have decided to reduce our prices, and lower the world has given us more than we asked for.
